

GOING 15,000 MILES TO WAR

British Subject From Singa- pore and American Nurse Pass Here.

They are making a trip of about 15,000 miles to serve England—the man to "do his bit" in the only way he knows and the woman to do hers in the gentle way that is given to women.

Eric Chart, British subject, of Kuala Lumpur, Federated Malay states, left Singapore August 28, on the way to join an officers' training camp in England. On board the ship to San Francisco, he met Miss Josephine Watson, American subject, of Shanghai, China. She had been working in China and thought that perhaps the American Red Cross could use her in connection with border trouble.

"Why don't you go where you can do some good?" Mr. Chart asked her. "I say, 'England needs nurses.' Come."

In London, a fair haired, blue eyed daughter is waiting for Mr. Chart. His wife died about eight months ago, and he sent the child on ahead with his sister-in-law. The Malay states are not such a bad place for children. He no longer has anything to keep him from fighting with the others, he says.

Off to Great War.

And so the pair are working eastward to the great work. They arrived in El Paso Wednesday afternoon, and tonight they are in the city.

"We've got to beat them, and it's going to be a long job," said Mr. Chart Thursday. "Out in my part of the world we think that the war will last two or three years more."

"The Malay is the most gentlemanly Asiatic I know," he said. "He is a fighting one, too. He is a good hand at fighting our battles as well as his own and it is our duty to help."

"Submarines? Well, we don't worry very much about them. If we want to go to England, we just go. The losses are very few, you know."

The Malay states, says Mr. Chart, need another Kipling to do them justice.

"The Malay is the most gentlemanly Asiatic I know," he said. "He is a born gentleman and this includes a deep grooved voice and a warm temperature is never below 82 the year round."

Miss Watson says she is quite ready to do for all this, but of the great malady—asthma—and for the danger too.

"I intend to join the British Red Cross. I would have joined the American Red Cross for the work of the war in Europe, but the delay in getting the papers from Washington deterred me."

"Naturally, I am very fond of nursing. If I am able to do some good, I shall be satisfied."

"Oh, perhaps, I shall get married some day after the war is over."

MICHIGAN GUARDSMAN IS HELD IN FORGERY CASE

Private Herest Fairchild, of the 12d Michigan Infantry, is being held in the city jail pending the investigation of a forgery charge filed by several MI "bosons."

Fairchild, it is said, through the issuance of checks to which the names of certain persons had been signed, has obtained over $500. It is said that he also obtained a large quantity of goods, representing himself to be an employee of the quartermaster's department.

ment of the army, and having no difficulty in getting the checks cashed. The case will be handled by the civil authorities.

Fairchild has refused to make any statement regarding the charge on which he is being held.

WHY JOHN QUIT DRINKING

By John's Wife.

In the happiest little woman,
 In all this little town;
 And my merry laugh and singing,
 Takes the place of sigh and frown.

JOHN HAS QUIT HIS DRINKING
And is like himself once more,
And the world is just a paradise
With such happiness in store.
One day I read some verses—
Alfred's "Meadow" they were—

And I said, that's John exactly,
And I'll send and get the same.
I sent for GOLDEN TREATMENT,
(As sly as sly could be)
And I put it in John's supper
And I put it in his tea.
And it didn't taste a little bit
Had no odor, no, you see—

was smoothest kind of sailing
For little Doctor Me.
I watched and prayed and waited.
(And I cried some, too, I guess).
I didn't have the greatest faith.
I'm ashamed now to confess.
John never thought a minute.
He was being cured of drink.

soon he's as well as any one,
It makes me cry to think!
It makes me cry for gladness,
I'm so proud to be his wife—
Once he is cured of drinking,
And leads a nice, new life.

to be would a golden staff,
 and when I say my prayers at night
 As thankful as can be—pray for John the most of all—
 Then GOLDEN TREATMENT.
